How to Build a Blog

If you would like to write a post with an image attached to it then you will need to upload a photo. Scale your image to around 440 pixels wide (although you will need to check this is correct for your blog's theme) and export the photo to your desktop.

Upload Vid	eo Slideshows				_
File	/Users/gilliancarson/Desk	Browse.	Upload	Browse	Video	Slidesh	iows
Title Description	Outside of house		Used: 0% « Back	our hous	ouse -	Edit Show:	ি Full size ি Title
						Link to:	 ♥ File ♥ Page ♥ None Send to editor >

Next go to the Dashboard and hit the 'Write' tab at the top of the screen. Scroll down until you see the Upload section. Hit the Browse tab and find the image you want to upload, give it a title and hit 'Upload'. You will then see the screen on the right which asks you if you want to use the full image or a thumbnail. Click 'full image' and then hit Send to Editor.

9 Once your photo is inside the blog editor you can start to write some text to go with it. Be sure to put a soft return (shift return) after your photo as this will create some space around your photo. Alternatively, you can hit 'Code' view and add and 10 Once you have finished writing your post you can do two things with it. You can save it as 'Draft' or you can 'Publish' it. We chose to publish our post and it immediately appeared on the site - as above.

7 So you have your blog set up but you're not too happy with your myblog. wordpress.com domain name. You need to buy your own. Choose a domain name registration site (like www.123-reg.co.uk) and search to see if your chosen domain is available. Mine is and it will cost me £2.59 a year (cheap!)

2 Next choose what type of domain you need. You don't need hosting because Wordpress is already kindly hosting your blog for you. All you will need is the domain. However, make sure that 'web forwarding' is included in this package - you'll see why in a second.

3 Once you have chosen and paid for your new domain name you will be given a username and password in order to log into your domain's admin area or Control Panel and set up web forwarding.

4 Once you have logged in choose your domain in the 'Manage Domains' dropdown. Hit 'Modify Domain'.

	If you select this option anyone typing artsandcraftshome.co.uk into a web brow shown the 123-Reg default page.
	⊙ Framed web-forwarding to a single page
	If you select web-forwarding to a single page the destination URL can have a sp on the end (e.g. index.htm). It could just point to a directory (URL ends with /) in which case the files display depend on the webserver 'directory index' settings. The destination URL will be replaced by artsandcraftshome.co.uk.
ן 1 1	fou will then be asked what type of web forwarding you require. In the case of 123 Reg you will choose 'Framed Web Forwarding to a single page'. This will simply direct your blog (artsandcrafts.wordpress.com) to the domain you just ourchased.

http://artsandcrafts.wordpress.com/

Title to be displayed in browser (for framed forwarding only): Arts & Crafts Home

URL of page icon (commonly favicon.ico):

6 Enter your new blog address as the website you want your URL to point to. Then give it a title. This is usually the title of your blog in Wordpress. Submit your changes.

You will then see a confirmation screen telling you that you have successfully forwarded your blog to your new domain name.

8 Give the system a few minutes to update and then test your web forwarding by typing in your new domain name to check if your blog appears. Tip: it should!

7 So you've set up your new blog and you've bought a brand new domain for it. But the design is looking a bit, well, uninspired. What do you do about it? You can change the theme of your blog. Simply log into the Dashboard and choose the Presentation tab. There you will see the Themes editor.

2 Once inside the Themes edtior you will see that your blog is currently using the default blog theme, Kubrick 1.5 (along with around 1.5 million other Wordpress bloggers no doubt). But of course you want to be different. All you need to do is choose another theme (there are a few ready loaded for your convenience).

Getting Started Choosing a Theme

3 Click on a new theme and this theme will automatically become active. Click on 'View Site' next to the Dashboard logo and you will see your new design in all its glory.

This design is called Dusk by Becca Wei - it's pretty fitting for an 'Arts and Crafts' blog. However, there is a distinct lack of buttons across the top of the page (which are handy) and the space for the photo is slightly longer than the 440 pixels that my image is saved at. But this can be fixed by resizing and reuploading the image.

Getting Started Choosing a Theme

5 Choosing a theme that already has an image in the header bar that runs across the top is a good option if you're not creatively inclined. However be warned that everyone else using this theme may still be using the default image too.

6 This wintry scene is pretty cool - I think I'll stick with this one for now.
